Here is one example of the exceptional talks we have lined up for you;

Steven Kamajian, DO, CMD, FACOFP, FILM

Dr. Kamajian has no problem bringing his unique perspective to any situation because that is what he has always done. He will be speaking on "Empathy: and its Impact on Clinical Outcomes".

The board-certified family practice specialist has spent his 36-plus-year career on the frontlines of health care serving patients from the youngest to the oldest. He has treated people in the traditional hospital setting as well as in skilled nursing facilities and hospice centers.

Dr. Kamajian took his skills, where he considered them to be most in need, and founded the Westminster Free Clinic. Not satisfied with merely setting up another clinical environment Dr. Kamajian employed "the medical home model" decades before health care reform and legislated "accountable care" came into play. Simply, he saw the innovative model as an effective means to give the hard-to-reach, low-income, patient population, access to not only physicians like himself, but also to dentists, pharmacists, nurses, mental health counselors, allied health professionals, attorneys, and others.
