

AAMS Clinical Rotating Program

The Armenian American Medical Society (AAMS) is proud to announce our new clinical rotating program aimed at Armenian medical students from Armenia. The program was developed by the AAMS in partnership with Dignity Health - Glendale Memorial Hospital, with the assistance of Dr. Kevin Galstyan. Clinical rotations are a great way to experience not only the "real" working world, but also give students the opportunity to see what it is like to be working in the industry of their choice.

Being an Armenian medical student from Armenia, these clinical rotations in the United States will provide them with an understanding of what the working culture is like in the United States, compared to their. Current students are Naria Avetisyan and Diana Anjelova.

Both Naira and Diana hail from Yerevan and are in their 5th year of study at Yerevan State Medical University and are slated to graduate in 2018. Naira is interested in many medical fields, but is most interested in OB-GYN and Radiology. Diana is interested in anesthesiology, cardiology, and ophthalmic surgery, but favors anesthesiology the most, since her grandfather is an anesthesiologist. Naira Avetisyan and Diana Anjelova have been rotating for the past three weeks.
